

A recent Forbes Magazine article declared Dayton one of America's fastest dying cities. However, on closer inspection, with its history of innovation and civic pride, Dayton seems poised to rise from its Rust Belt ashes.

Seeds of Change believes the vision for the future of Dayton is inside each and every resident. With this simple survey, we hope to start to tap in to that vision, and begin a community conversation around the "possibilities" for a new Dayton.

1. What do you like best about Dayton?

2. What declaration of "possibility" can you make that has the power to transform the community AND inspire you?
